M-theory is a theory in physics that unifies all consistent versions of superstring theory. The existence of such a theory was first conjectured by Edward Witten at a string theory conference at the University of Southern California in the spring of 1995. Witten's announcement initiated a flurry of research activity known as the second superstring revolution.

It describes how these strings propagate through space and interact with each other. On distance scales larger than the string scale, a string looks just like an ordinary particle, with its mass, charge, and other properties ...

Glaser (1978), Glaser (1992) has remained true to this commitment. Induction is viewed as the key process, with the researcher moving from the data to empirical generalisation and on to theory (Bulmer, 1979). This is illustrated in Fig. 1. As the data are analysed and coded, ideas and potential insights will begin to develop which are recorded in theoretical memos; it is the data that develops ...
